Workload Policy of the Department of Mechanical and Industrial Engineering College of Engineering Northeastern University

Approved by the Department of Mechanical and Industrial Engineering on September 14, 2018
Approved by the Dean of the College of Engineering on September 14, 2018
Provost approved on October 2, 2018

The Department of Mechanical and Industrial Engineering (MIE) is aiming for research and education excellence with the unique strength of co-op program. This workload policy is designed to (1) sustain the transformation, and (2) enable every faculty member to maximize his/her potential.

The work of faculty in MIE consists of (1) research, scholarship, creative activities, and professional development (hereafter referred to as research); (2) teaching and education (hereafter referred to as teaching); and (3) service and leadership (hereafter referred to as service). Research includes all forms of knowledge creation directly by the faculty and of grant applications that enables knowledge creation. Teaching includes all forms of knowledge propagation, in and outside of classroom, online and on-ground. Service includes all forms of administration, management and leadership roles within Northeastern University, and in professional societies and communities that support the University's mission in knowledge creation and propagation or promote positive societal impacts of the knowledge creation and propagation.

Each full-time faculty member has a total of 100% workload. For full-time non-tenure track teaching faculty, the baseline of this workload distribution is 90% for teaching (normally equivalent to six four credit-hour courses per year), 5% for research and 5% for service. For nontenure-track research faculty, the baseline of workload is 95% for research and 5% for service and teaching. For tenured faculty, the baseline of workload is 45% for teaching (normally equivalent to three four-credit-hour classes per year), 40% for research and 15% for service. For tenure-track faculty, the baseline of workload is 30% for teaching, 60% for research and 10% for service. As research or service effort changes, the teaching load is adjusted through discussions with the Chair. Requests for reduced teaching load for family leaves, medical leaves, and maternity leaves will be accommodated according to university policies. If a faculty member holds joint appointment, the default workload will be prorated according to the percentage of appointment in this department and this can be modified through coordination with other units of the joint appointment. If a faculty member has concerns about his/her workload, the concern can be first directed to the department chair and then the Merit Review Committee. If the concern persists, it will be discussed and decided in a general faculty meeting through a simple majority vote.

This policy document will be reviewed and approved by faculty annually before the academic year starts, and become available on the department SharePoint site together with the teaching load distribution.
